

Guangzhou Liancheng Energy Technology Development Co., Ltd. focuses on importing and exporting of burner parts, gas plate parts and industrial furnace related parts, etc., which is a high-tech energy-saving enterprise that integrates R&D, design, production, installation, commissioning and service around gas heat energy equipment, valves and accessories.

Guangzhou Liancheng is located in Guangzhou city which is a subsidiary with self-management import and export rights of Eacon Group. For more than 18 years development history, Liancheng has formed a scientific and efficient sales service network system, social and economic benefits and new products promotion has been a virtuous cycle, not only won the customer's extensive trust and support, but also won the peer respect and praise. With the good reputation and competitiveness of "honesty management", Liancheng has won the Chinese general agent right of the world-famous WATT Group's Italian company GIULIANI and became the first-tier agent for COFI ignition transformers and Siemens products.

Win-win cooperation, honesty, past efforts and customer trust, Liancheng always remembers the social responsibility to protect the environment and move forward. Liancheng people used their own wisdom and experience, combined advanced foreign technology and value concepts, by integrating and investing in domestic excellent production companies, Liancheng launched our own brand LENC. LENC is concentrated on exporting burner accessories, etc. At present, LENC's products include burner ignition transformers, solenoid valves, actuators, etc. We will continue our efforts, constantly provide advanced and reliable solutions for customers' energy use. To make our corporate contribution in the field of energy conservation, to develop together with the community and our customers to achieve a win-win situation!

China distributor

Chinese first-tier agent

